From 1872 to 1883, he held tho principalship of Charleston academy, Jefferson county, West Virginia; and in the latter year he became principal of the Staunton Military academy. For distinguished service in the field of education, Columbian (now George Washington) university, Washington, District of Columbia, conferred upon him the honorary degree of Master of Arts. Captain Kables career as a teacher and administrator has been replete with successes and honors. His equipment as a military educator is an unusual one, combining, as it does, practical military experience and a soldierly bearing with a cultivated mind and the intuitions of the teacher. In this connection, the testimony of the late Hon. William L. Wilson, ex-postmastergeneral, and president of the Washington and Lee university, may be fitly reproduced as summing up, in brief form, Captain Kables characteristics: No teacher, says President Wilson, ever more fully commanded or deserved to command the confidence and respect of the community than Captain William H. Kable. In scholarship he is thorough, exact, and always advancing; a good linguist, a good mathematician, and something of an enthusiast in several of the physical sciences. As a man, his character is of a sterling type; which fits him to be the exemplar of the young, while as a citizen he is liberal, progressive, and public-spirited. Indeed, he blends, in a union not often found, good scholastic habits and tastes with that common sense which is the basis and guarantee of success in...
