Methods of accommodation were consulted, and the collateral council, and the councils of state and of war advised seriously, upon these sad calamities: upon the whole, after many debates, it was resolved as the best expedient, that his excellency should command four regiments of foot, to reinforce that body that was already placed in defence of the castle: and this order was immediately put in execution. The next resolution was, that a legal instrument should be printed, and affixed in the publick places of the city;- which should absolutely abolish all taxes and impositions, and a general pardon be secured to the offenders. As soon as the instrument was published, it was sent into the great market-place, that the populace might see and read it, and so disperse and return...
