The Skeleton in Black Canyon (Paperback)

By John H Nabors Jr

Createspace, United States, 2010. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 196 x 132 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . John Nabors first youth adventure story, The Skeleton in Black Canyon, was written in 2010 to be read by his fourth grade grandson at night. The chapters rolled from the printer and took a life of its own. This youth adventure story features an 11-year old boy and his grandfather during two camping trips near Anza-Borrego Desert State Park in southern California. The first of the two-part story involves a two-night trip on a four-wheeler ATV into a valley that is surrounded by mountains. They find a hot springs pool used by the Native Americans for centuries, an old gold mine, and a cave overlooking the valley. In the cave they find a skeleton of a man and the mystery begins. Bruce rescues his grandfather after an accident. In the second part of the story Bruce and his grandfather return by horseback to the same valley to look for clues to resolve what happened to the man in the cave. A State Park Ranger takes them to another valley in his Jeep in order to investigate a hunting...
